11th/12th Grade STEM Presentations

STEM presenters from the medical and aviation fields recently spoke to our 11th and 12th graders. Dr. Bui from Conway Medical Center discussed the anatomy of the mouth, led students through a mock intubation, and fielded their questions on the medical field.

John Gardner, a pilot with NetJets, used recent crashes in the field of aviation to discuss the STEM skills applicable to all vocations with examples of communication, the dangers of complacency and the value of experience.

LEARNING & GROWING

Decision Day!

CA Seniors place a star on the College they have chosen to attend!

Decision Day!

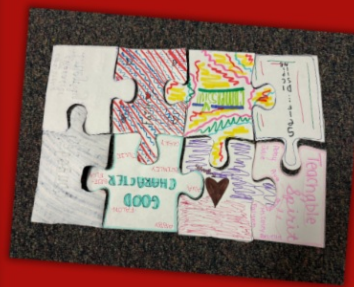

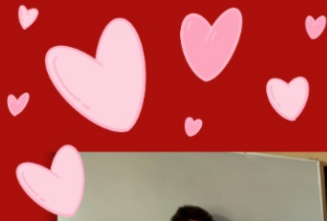

This past week our very own Jennifer Irwin was honored in being formally awarded the South Carolina Independent School Association Lower School Teacher of the Year Award.

Congratulations Mrs. Irwin on this much deserved recognition!

Advisory Groups Wrap Up!

The Advisory Groups recently held their final meeting of the school year. Functioning as a mentor program for middle and high school students, Advisory Groups met monthly in small groups with an adult leader from the staff. This year's theme focused on various aspects of building one's character, with Scripture guiding the discussion topics.
